The Hoboken Man

1150 Maxwell Lane
Hoboken, 201-610-0500

Opened in October 2009, Hoboken Man is a swanky barber shop that caters to cosmopolitan males. "There's a trend in the professional-services industry toward catering to men," says co-owner Emily Gonc. "Appearances are important and it's exciting that men are getting comfortable with themselves."

Gonc describes the salon/spa as an "old-school barbershop with a modern, classy twist." Wood-paneled walls and cushy, La-Z-Boy-style pedicure chairs contribute to the masculine vibe.

To complement the man-cave decor, there are eight flat-panel televisions, male-focused reading materials, and complimentary beverages.

Salon services include a fourteen-step straight-razor shave, gray-hair camouflaging, eyebrow sculpting, and a menu of waxing and skin-care treatments.

Hoboken Man's signature cut includes a hair consultation, scalp massage, and neck clean-ups between appointments. —JASON STAHL
